BMC is announcing changes in the Installation System product:

- In the BMC Internet Service Retrieval (ISR) documentation, the name of the job that you use to retrieve the ISR service package was incorrectly specified as $JOmRETV (with a capital O). The correct name is $J0mRETV (with a zero).

- Product selection panels in the Installation System now include product family names, making it easier for you to select products to install.

- MainView Customization now offers selective job generation:
  — You can select specific products and systems for which to generate customization jobs.
  — You can specify whether to allocate all of the necessary data sets or only those that do not already exist.
