Tracking number QM001881332: A table space might be missing data after a recovery

BMC is alerting users to a problem in the RECOVER PLUS for DB2 product.

Issue

When all of the following conditions exist, a table space might be missing data after a recovery:

- The table space is a universal table space (UTS) defined with COMPRESS YES.
- The DSNUTILB LOAD REPLACE LOG YES command is executed on the table space.
- The load operation (LOAD) is unable to build a dictionary.
- There are no image copies prior to the recovery point (recovery is from log only).
- A rebuild of the index (REBUILD INDEX) is occurring concurrently with the recovery of the table space (RECOVER TABLESPACE).
- An auto compress dictionary is built between the load and the recovery point.
